

ASKS LAWYER TO GET BOOZE

Dan Kelly Retains Legal Head to Make Fight For "Leg Wash."

Somerville, Mass., Dec. 1.—Dan Kelly says they're carrying this prohibition business too far. They've locked his quart bottle of "leg wash" up in the dark recess of the steel vault at police court. Kelly retained counsel. It's a fight in a flash, takes it from D. Kelly.

Kelly got mad at his wife last March and, according to witnesses, gave an imitation of a cave man. He was placed on probation and has been reporting regularly every week since, but he got tired of it and appealed to the probation officer. The probation officer brought Kelly into the police office of Judge L. Wagner West, to have the case reviewed and ask that it be dismissed.

"Judge, I want to go out to California," began Kelly.

WOMEN VOTERS HEAR ADDRESS

Walter H. Scott Speaks On Responsibilities of Good Citizenship.

"What Women Should Do With the Ballot Now That They Have It" was the subject of an address delivered before the league of women voters Thursday afternoon by Walter H. Scott, president of the El Paso Bar Association, at a meeting in the Y. W. C. A. building.

Mr. Scott developed his talk along the lines of the duties and responsibilities of good citizenship and also the responsibilities of women voters.

"Good citizenship implies a responsibility," he said. "A good citizen should be able to vote and exercise the right of franchise on all problems which are submitted to the people to be decided by the ballot."

The first of the important qualifications of a candidate is his personal fitness, the position, rather than some passing and immaterial issue on which he may be running. Of course, the fundamental issue is the most important. But in regard to the secondary issues, vote for the man who has tried ability, unusual energy, broad sympathies and unswerving courage. Let the secondary issues take care of themselves. Politics and law are not the same thing. Politics is a game and law is a duty.

Mr. Scott said that the women who are in the position of voters should be able to vote and exercise the right of franchise on all problems which are submitted to the people to be decided by the ballot.

Lead Hen To Trap Nest, Then Induce Her To Lay

How the Poultry Raiser Can Overcome Nature of Fowl to Deposit Eggs in "Cash Registers" and Not in Secluded Places—Trap Nesting Valuable.

WHERE HENS GET CREDIT FOR THEIR EGGS.

If you have ever led a horse down a long and tortuous lane to water and then had the animal repeatedly refuse to drink, you are in a position to appreciate the predicament of the poultry raiser who equips his poultry house with trap nests and then finds that some of the pullets will not use these ingenious devices. That latest installment of the female fowl to deposit her eggs in secluded, remote spots, preferably in a nest which she personally constructs, may cause trouble to the chicken raiser who attempts to accumulate his pullets to the artificial trap nest.

Usually as soon as the pullets are removed to winter quarters where trap nests are used the trouble begins, as some of the young females may lay their eggs on the floor in the straw and litter in the corners of the building, and often upon and under the dropping boards. In remedying such misbehavior on the part of the pullets it is first essential to see that enough trap nests are provided. Usually the equipment should include one trap nest for each four pullets or hens in the flock. Having remedied any deficiency in the way of nest equipment, the poultryman should next resort to handling as a means of curing the fowl of their undesirable habit of laying their eggs anywhere and everywhere about the house. The owner or attendant should enter the house frequently throughout the day, and as often as he finds one of the pullets nesting in a secluded spot he should pick the bird up and place her in a trap nest. After he does this several times the pullet becomes accustomed to the artificial nest and seeks there intuitively when she is ready to lay eggs.

Make the Nest Cozy. Of course, it is essential to make the nests as attractive and cozy as possible, and this is accomplished by confining them with plenty of clean litter, as often as a new supply of straw is needed. Furthermore, in particular objectionable cases it pays to clean all the litter from the floor of the house, in order to break the habit of laying promiscuously wherever they desire. By removing the straw and bedding, the floor of the house is not so attractive as a nesting spot for the hens and pullets, and hence they are forced to seek the trap nest.

The purpose of trap nesting the fowl is to ascertain which hens lay, either by determining what nest they make or by identifying their eggs during the hatching season, so that pullets or records are possible. Trap nesting requires a considerable amount of attention, but is a valuable aid in developing a stock of poultry along lines of breeding for egg production.

Architect Runs Amuck With Ax; Kills Wife And Eldest Daughter

Passaic, N. J., Dec. 1.—M. R. Brown, 35 years old, an architect, ran amuck in his home with an ax Tuesday night or Wednesday morning, killed his wife and his eldest daughter, seriously wounded three younger children and then took his own life. One of the wounded children, a boy of 12, is expected to die.

Plan Yacht Races For Olympic Games In 1920

London, Eng., Dec. 1.—In connection with the Olympic games which are to be held in Belgium next year there will be four days' yacht racing at Ostend. The dates are already fixed, July 12 to 15, inclusive. Each nation will be invited to send one competitor for each class, and it is hoped that races will be arranged for all classes adopted at the recent international conference, although it is unlikely that next year will see any of the best class yachts.

If rumors can be relied on there might be some 15-metre boats out, and there has never been keener racing than in that class. It will be to the smaller boats, however, that we shall look mainly for next year's sport, and we might see quite a number of newly-adapted classes of small, inexpensive boats built in the different yachting districts.

Following on the Olympic races there is quite a long list of continental regattas already arranged. The additional fixtures are July 16, Lover to Ostend; July 18, Ostend to Flushing; July 19, Flushing to Harwich; July 20, Harwich to Antwerp; July 21 and 22, Antwerp to Ostend; July 23, Antwerp to Harwich; July 24, Flushing to Ostend; July 25 and 26, Ostend regatta.

It will probably be found necessary to readjust one or two of the English dates to avoid clashes. The chief difficulty offered are the Royal Temple and the Royal Cinque Ports whose regattas might have to be fixed a few days earlier than in former years.

Women Should Wear Imitation Fur Pieces

Boston, Mass., Dec. 1.—Girls and women would never swagger down Tremont street in hundreds of dollars' worth of fur coats if they followed the advice of Mrs. M. H. L. Fraebel of this city.

Instead they would swagger an imitation fur which would be just as realistic.

Mrs. Fraebel is president of the Millinery guild, and claims that it is an inhumane and unnecessary act to torture animals so that female vanity may be satisfied to preen itself in their pelts.

Clad in a "leopard skin" coat, so likable to have caused expert furriers to lay wagers as to its genuineness, Mrs. Fraebel demonstrated that there is a solution to the needless sacrificing of animals to the fashionable fur trade.

"Ingratitude and vanity on the part of many people," Mrs. Fraebel asserted, "are responsible for the cruel trapping methods considered most efficient by those who cater to the demand for a product which is a luxury, and in no way essential to human life. It is practically impossible to trap an animal without causing torture and suffering."

American Made Face Lotions Hit In Orient

Denver, Colo., Dec. 1.—Women of Japan and China are "falling hard" for American-made face lotions and other toilet articles, according to information reaching western manufacturers of these goods. As a result the first shipment of "Haver" made face creams, powders and lotions has left this city destined to Nagasaki, they will be distributed through a string of drug stores in the Far East.

Makes Bread Safe

You mothers know, that when the kiddies come home from school, the first thing they ask for is "bread and butter".

Give them all they want of it provided the bread is wholesome and light; soggy, coarse grain bread is very injurious to the little ones.

The quality of the bread depends on the quality of the flour. You should be certain that the flour used in the bread you bake is the very best. That certainty is yours if you bake with Cream of Wheat flour, it makes bread safe for the kiddies.

When you ask for flour be sure to say Cream of Wheat.
